The German gunboat Illis left this yesterday for Korea, whither she is being sent with despatches, referring, it is supposed, to the British occupation of Port Hamilton, in order to support the action of the Russian Secretary of Legation, Mr Speier, who went there lately in the Oprichtnick, to claim the cession of some part of Korean territory to his Government on the ground that it has granted Port Hamilton to Great Britain, or else to urge the Corean Ministry to recall its permision for Admiral Sir Wm. Dowell occupying the place, in case it will not yield to the Russian demands.

It is quite possible that Germany desires to have a slice off the Corean loaf in the shape of some port or island where she can refit and coal her increasing naval forces in Chinese and Japan waters in case of difficulties with her present friends. It is founding a colony in Corea. How this colony was to be obtained no mention was ceded by a treaty under friendly pressure or taken possession of under some pretext. reason why they should not also seeme themselves against future inconvenience What will be the end of it all?
